

A HELPING HAND ATTACHING BINDING TO THE QUILT

When attaching the binding to the quilt, (especially anything bigger than the average wall hanging or table runner) trying to keep the quilt straight and piled up on the sewing table so the edge will feed straight through needle is always a hassle. (It is hard to get hold of the quilt when it is hanging off of the table.)

If you use a quilter's glove (like Machingers Gloves) on your LEFT hand, you can easily grab the quilt to get it straight on your sewing table and your hand won't slide on the fabric when guiding the quilt under the presser foot.
